Counselling & Clinical Psychologist; Consulting, & Coaching Psychologist

DipTeach, BEd, GradDipCouns, MEdSt, PhD
MAPS, FCCLP

Dr John Barletta has enjoyed assisting the public, professionals, schools, and corporations deal with life challenges for 35 years. His career began as a teacher then guidance counsellor (in primary and secondary schools). Through extended study in Australia, the USA and Italy, his journey has encompassed roles such as relationship educator, university academic, consultant and therapist.

John has over twenty years experience in the private education sector. His training, expertise and passion remain with education, guidance, counselling, and psychology. He is a high-energy, positive, and genuine presenter. He offers solutions and pathways through practical direction, and his presentations and private consultations reflect his good humour and intellectual wisdom. His latest book, The Home Therapist (Australian Academic Press), a unique, self-help guide for everyday psychological issues, has been very well-received.

Dr Barletta Presents Professional Development with Purpose

Reignite Your Passion for Education: What inspires the staff in your school?

Attitude is everything and it takes your entire school community to embrace transformation. John offers personal and professional training for teachers, support staff, administrators, school leaders and leadership teams. His sessions spark active interaction and inspire pathways that are informative, engaging and challenging. John will creatively structure his presentations specifically for your school or team. No two environments are identical, therefore professional development will meet the needs of your individual community. Each session will highlight the understanding of a concept, and also leave people with useful suggestions, handouts and tip-sheets.
